Just A Thought

“In Discipleship Journal, Carole Mayhall tells of a woman who went to a diet center to lose weight. The director took her to a full-length mirror. On it he outlined a figure and told her, "This is what I want you to be like at the end of the program." Days of intense dieting and exercise followed, and every week the woman would stand in front of the mirror, discouraged because her bulging outline didn't fit the director's ideal. But she kept at it, and finally one day she conformed to the longed-for image.” Daily Bread, Aug. 8, 1990.

Jesus is the outline on our mirror.

Weekly Memory Verse

Ephesians 4:29, “²⁹Let no corrupting talk come out of your mouths, but only such as is good for building up, as fits the occasion, that it may give grace to those who hear.”

On what are we to set our minds?

Today's Bible Passage

1 Timothy 4:7-8, English Standard Version.

“⁷Have nothing to do with irreverent, silly myths. Rather train yourself for godliness; ⁸for while bodily training is of some value, godliness is of value in every way, as it holds promise for the present life and also for the life to come.”

Paul's Portion

The time that most parents dread has come to our family; our little girl is learning how to drive. It is not that we are worried about her abilities to learn and master the art of driving. What does concern us, is every other driver. Other drivers concern us because we have observed many drivers who seem to have no regard for the rules of the road. Daily you can witness drivers, not obeying speed limits, not using turn indicators, not stopping at stop signs or red lights, tailgating, and a variety of other traffic law infractions. I am happy to say that our daughter is striving to learn and obey all the rules of driving. I hope that she continues to obey and keep abreast of all of the rules of driving as long as she drives. Which brings up a point. Before she became of age to begin learning to drive our daughter did not care too much about the rules of driving. She, of course, was aware of some of the rules, but since they didn't really apply to her yet she didn't spend much time reflecting upon them. I suspect that if there comes a time when she decides that she will no longer drive she again will not spend too much time reflecting on the rules of driving. Quite simply rules do not apply to one who is not engaged in the activity or practice to which the rules belong. This is not the same as saying that the rules do not apply to the one who decides that the rules do not apply to them. Some people approach God's rules, the rules contained in Scripture, the same as the rules for driving. They are of the opinion that if they don't want to have anything to do with God, salvation, or anything Christian than the rules of Christianity do not apply to them. If the rules do not apply to them then they can ignore them. Naturally they will make statements like “Who are you to judge me?” They may even quote scripture such as 1 Corinthians 5:12, “For what have I to do with judging outsiders?” They say, since they are outsiders they are exempt from judgment. One problem with their logic is that they stop too soon in their reading of scripture; verse 13 states, “God judges those outside.” The main problem with their logic is that the rules of Scripture are not rules for Christianity, they are rules for living, and one can't exempt oneself from the rules of life. Thus, God's rules apply to all, and all will be held accountable to them.

Just For Fun

Ducking into confession with a turkey under his arm, Brian said, "Forgive me Father, for I have sinned. I stole this turkey to feed my family. Would you take it and assuage my guilt."

"Certainly not," said the priest, "As penance, you must return it to the one from whom you stole it."

"I tried," Brian sobbed, "But, he refused. What should I do?"

"If what you say is true, then it is all right for you to keep the turkey to feed your family," the priest replied.

Thanking him Brian hurried off. After confession the priest returned home to find that someone had stolen his turkey.
